DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicant's election with traverse of claims 6-9 in the reply filed on July 1, 2004 is acknowledged.

- 2. Claims 1-5 and 10 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected claims, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in the reply filed on July 1, 2004.
- 3. Claims 6-9 are presented for examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 5. Claims 6 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Imagawa (U.S. Patent No. 5,387,820) and Fujishima (U.S. Patent No. 5,283,762).
- 6. Regarding claim 6, Imagawa teaches a system for selecting and applying a proper operating voltage for a powered device [abstract], comprising:

means for sampling battery voltage of a battery associated with said powered device [col. 4, lines 31-32];

means for providing a reference voltage (the voltage outputted from reference oscillator) [col. 3, lines 63-66; col. 4, line 33]; means for comparing said sampled battery voltage and said reference voltage [col. 4, lines 31-33];and means for powering said powered device from a power source having an output voltage equal to said reference voltage in the absence of a battery connected to said powered device [col. 4, lines 35-38].

Imagawa does not explicitly teach the system including means for adjusting said reference voltage and selecting a value of said reference voltage that most closely matches said sampled battery voltage.

Fujishima teaches a system including a plurality of reference voltage values (Vr1, Vr2, Vr3 and Vr4) [Fig. 1; col. 8, lines 19-27] and means for adjusting reference voltage (Vr) and selecting a value of said reference voltage depends on a power supply voltage [Fig. 1; col. 9, lines 30-32; col. 10, lines 4-8].

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to combine the teachings of Imagawa and Fujishima because they both teach a system having a plurality of power supply voltages. Fujishima's teaching of selecting one of a plurality of reference voltage values depends on power supply voltage would increase the integrity of Imagawa system by allowing a proper power supply voltage to be provided to the system.

7. Regarding claim 9, Imagawa teaches that the power source is protected from being inadvertently connected to said battery voltage [switches 12 and 14 of Fig. 3 isolating power source voltage and battery voltage].

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claims 7 and 8 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
